

European Sales Coordinator
£30,000 - £40,000 p.a. + benefits.

Selling to key accounts and appointed distributors this technical sales professional will have a proven track record in the access control or security equipment sector. Primarily an office based role, but requiring some domestic and international travel, the ESC will report directly to the Sales and Marketing Director. The ESC will play an important role in the development of sales strategy to meet agreed objectives. The successful candidate will be dynamic and self motivated. He/she will have high level commercial awareness and be skilled in presentation and sales techniques. Recognised qualifications in electronic or electro-mechanical technology will enable the ESC to advise customers in the effective application of the company's products.

Storm Interface manufacture data entry and ID devices for use in exposed or public environments. Situated close to London's Heathrow airport, within easy reach of the M4, M40 and M25, the company is ISO9001 certified and committed to the supply of world class products and service to its customers.
Applications should be made by email with an attached C.V. to recruit@storm-interface.com